Background Information

MOCS1 (Molybdenum cofactor synthesis 1), also known as MOCS1A, MOCS1B, MOCOD, plays a crucial role in the biosynthesis of molybdenum cofactor and molybdopterin, which are essential for the activity of several key enzymes involved in carbon, nitrogen, and sulfur metabolism. MOCS1 produces two functional proteins, MOCS1A and MOCS1B, which follow different translocation routes before mitochondrial matrix import for cPMP biosynthesis involving both proteins (PMID: 31996372). MOCS1 was tumor suppressor gene affecting survival positively, while the other genes were oncogenes whose high expression was associated with poor survival (PMID: 37120564). The MOCS1 protein exists multiple isoforms.

Selected Validation Data

Various lysates were subjected to SDS PAGE followed by western blot with 31550-1-AP (MOCS1 antibody) at dilution of 1:3000 incubated at room temperature for 1.5 hours. This data was developed using the same antibody clone with 31550-1-PBS in a different storage buffer formulation.

Immunofluorescent analysis of (4% PFA) fixed Jurkat cells using MOCS1 antibody (31550-1-AP) at dilution of 1:200 and CoraLite®488-Conjugated Goat Anti-Rabbit IgG(H+L) (SA00013-2). This data was developed using the same antibody clone with 31550-1-PBS in a different storage buffer formulation.
