Background Information

WRAP53 (WD40-encoding RNA Antisense to p53), also known as TCAB1 and WDR79, is a multifunctional protein encoded by a gene that produces both a coding mRNA and a regulatory antisense RNA targeting the tumor suppressor p53. Initially identified for its role in maintaining genomic stability by regulating p53 expression, WRAP53 is crucial for telomerase assembly and localization to Cajal bodies, impacting telomere maintenance. It also participates in DNA damage repair and cellular stress responses. The calculated molecular weight of WRAP53 is about 59 kDa, but the actual observed molecular weight is about 72-75 kDa, which may be due to modification.

Selected Validation Data

Various lysates were subjected to SDS PAGE followed by western blot with 86487-1-RR (WRAP53 antibody) at dilution of 1:10000 incubated at room temperature for 1.5 hours.

Biolayer interferometry (BLI) kinetic assays of 86487-1-RR against Human WRAP53 were performed. The affinity constant is below 1 pM.
